Teaching Experience

Courses Taught:

University of North Carolina School of Public Health:

Introductory Epidemiology: 1960-1968, 1970-1971

Cross-Cultural Epidemiology: 1961-1966

Family Factors in Health (an intermediate epidemiology course for Epidemiology majors, Nurses, and Nutritionists): 1961 - 1969 (approx.)

Culture and Health (an intermediate epidemiology course illustrating social and behavioral influences on disease rates and health behavior): 1962 - 1966 (approx.)

Behavioral Measurement: 1967-1969, 1971-1972 .

Also served on many Doctoral Dissertation Committees (chairing four) in Epidemiology, and also a few in Biostatistics, Health Education, and other public health specialties.

University of North Carolina, College of Arts and Sciences:

Taught intermediate-level Abnormal Psychology Course, 1971-1972

Co-chaired a Doctoral Dissertation Committee

University of North Carolina, School of Medicine:

Taught Psychiatry residents in out-patient case-conferences

(diagnostic and referral) as a Clinical Psychologist, 1963-1969

Boston University School of Medicine: 1972-1981

"Spot lectures" to medical students in Biology of Disease and Introduction to Psychiatry. Mini-series for Psychiatry Residents each year on Psychiatric Epidemiology. Occasional lectures to Cardiology Residents and to Residents and Staff on Psychosomatic Medicine service.

University of Hawaii School of Public Health: Sabbatical Year, 1969-70.

Taught "core course" in Public Health and also Chronic Disease Epidemiology

Other Institutions:

Short Courses: Florida State University: 1966 Intensive Summer School Course for graduate students in Medical Sociology

University of Hannover (Germany), 1979, Social Epidemiology (1 week)

University of Tübingen (Germany), 1980, Behavioral Factors in Disease (1 week)

National Institute of Occupational Health (Finland), 1981

International Course on the Psychosomatic Approach to Job Stress.

Guest Lectureships: Have had many invitations to present special lectures to universities and conferences. Partial listing follows:
 Universities: Harvard, Yale, Johns Hopkins, Columbia University (Med School), Boston College, Tulane (Med School), Rochester, Michigan, Utah, Univ. of Texas School of Public Health at Houston; Univ. of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston, U.C.L.A., U. California Berkeley, U. California San Diego (Med. School), U. California Irvine, U. Southern California (Med School), U. Münster (Med School, Germany), Rijksuniversiteit Limburg (Med School, Netherlands), U. Köln (Med School, Germany), U. Stockholm.

Research Activities:

Have been directing research and obtaining grant support for such work since 1966. Most of this support has been from the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute.

Recent projects (Principal Investigator unless otherwise indicated)

- HL 15399 1972-1977 Behavioral Factors in Cardiovascular Diseases.
- Dept. of Transportation, Federal Aviation Agency Contract No: DOT-FA 73-WA-3211, 1973-1978.
Air Traffic Controller Health Change Study. Dr. Robert M. Rose, Principal Investigator; Dr. C. David Jenkins, Deputy P.I.
- HL 18318 Behavioral Factors in Hypertension, part of BUMC Hypertension SCOR, 1975-1980.
- HL 20637 Recovery after Heart Surgery: Biobehavioral Factors. 1977-1982.

Committee Responsibilities:

At various times have served on Human Research Review Committees (Institutional Review Boards), Curriculum Committee, Policy Advisory Committee to Chair of Division (1980 to present.) Appointments and Promotions (1980 to present).
